About

The Studies are focused for nursing students having their advanced nursing studies in perioperative nursing (= theatre nursing and anesthetic nursing). Graduated nurses are possible to take part in this education as well.

The studies provide the capability to act as a perioperative nurse in operation theatre and day surgery units. The Programme reflects perioperative nursing, health technology and maintains continuous learning for professionals. The growing need for health services for an aging population is also a challenge that need to be met with high quality in perioperative nursing. The both pre- and postoperative periods in hospital are shorter and new technologies and modes of action has been adapted in surgical field.
